TODAY'S PROGRAM:

Kevin Thomas, DO from LECOM, and Rotary Club of Greensburg member, was our speaker today. Kevin started off giving a short biography of Andrew Still, the founder of osteopathic medicine. Andrew was born in Virginia but spent most of his life in Kansas. After the Civil War and the tragic deaths of his wife, three of his biological children and an adopted child, he concluded that conventional medical practices of the day were generally ineffective.

Many years later, in 1892, he founded the first school of osteopathy based on this new approach to medicine. The school was called the American School of Osteopathy in Kirksville, Missouri. It is now the A.T. Still University.

Kevin spoke about the four tenets of Osteopathic Medicine. 1. The body is a unit; the person is a unit of body, mind and spirit. 2. The body is capable of self-regulation, self-healing and health maintenance. 3. Structure and function are reciprocally interrelated. 4. Rational treatment is based upon an understanding of the basic principles of body unity, self-regulation and the interrelationship of structure and function.

Lake Erie College of Osteopathic Medicine (LECOM) has campuses in Erie, PA., Bradenton, FL., Elmira, NY., and Greensburg, PA. (Seton Hill) In addition to Osteopathic Medicine, the areas of study include the Schools of Pharmacy, Dental Medicine, Podiatric Medicine and the Accelerated Physician Assistant Pathway.
